Legacies are for Good.

2016 LEGACY REPORT
Mission

Baptist Health Foundation, Inc., supports the health system’s mission through philanthropy and stewardship of gifts that enable Baptist Health hospitals — Baptist Medical Center Jacksonville, Baptist Beaches, Baptist Nassau, Baptist South and Wolfson Children’s Hospital — to continually serve patients and their families, and other community health care needs.
With the arrival of the New Year, many of us have made resolutions and set goals for the year ahead. When we began the Baptist Health Securing Tomorrow Together campaign in 2013, we set a goal to increase the endowment from $22 million to $75 million by 2018. To be honest, I thought this was somewhat of a stretch goal. However, I am very pleased to share that, as of September 30, 2016, we have reached $100 million in endowment funds! What a tribute to you, our donors, to help Baptist Health reach this milestone at the Foundation.

We are fortunate that so many in our community understand how vital endowments are to our health system, including the individuals, families, and corporations highlighted in this edition of the Legacy Report. I believe that there has never been a time in health care when sustainable funding was more critical than now. Endowment funds support in perpetuity many key programs and services that are never going to be adequately funded through traditional reimbursement. Endowments truly are a gift to future generations.

We deeply appreciate the many volunteers and community leaders who have been ambassadors for Baptist Health during the campaign, whether on fundraising committees or through informal conversations with friends and associates. Our recent fundraising event, Evening of Celebration, is an example of a volunteer effort to create a new endowment for Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center to help our medical staff with care, treatment, prevention and much more.

As our comprehensive campaign continues into 2018, we look forward to even more opportunities to secure the future of health care in our region.

Thank you for your continued commitment to Baptist Health. With your support, we continue to be on the forefront of changing health care for good.

Sincerely,

A. Hugh Greene, FACHE
President & CEO
Baptist Health
Someone once said, “How you use the opportunities you’re given to affect the world around you will determine the legacy you leave behind.” Many donors have established lasting legacies through their support of Baptist Health’s comprehensive campaign, Securing Tomorrow Together. After entering the public phase of the five-year campaign in October 2015, we have reached $100 million in endowments 12 months later. The campaign will continue into 2018, which provides time in which to secure additional gifts for new and emerging strategic priorities at Baptist Health.

I applaud the fundraising efforts of Baptist Health’s Senior Leadership team, hospital boards, development and advisory councils, and the Baptist Health Foundation Board and staff. I am proud that all foundation trustees stepped up to lead by example and personally support the campaign. For instance, in 2016, Fred “Fel” Lee, and his wife Karen, established an endowment to provide support to the AgeWell Center for Senior Health for behavioral health issues, dementia and other brain related diseases and caregiver services. In addition, Jane Rollinson teamed up with Kathy Barco to create an AgeWell at Home Fund supporting a variety of services such as home-based primary care, telehealth technologies, and staff training. Foundation Trustee Art Graham and friends established an endowment to support Pediatric Oncology at Wolfson Children’s Hospital as well as research and program needs at Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center. And Foundation Trustee Jeff Edwards, MD, and his wife, Annette, recently established a fund that will provide rehabilitation services for uninsured or under-insured patients at Baptist Medical Center South.

Donors to the campaign who are providing financial security and support for the health system will never know the number of lives touched by their generosity but their legacies will live on, allowing Baptist Health to provide the best in health care now and for many years to come. We can’t thank you enough for your support.

Sincerely,

Kurt Mori, MD

Society of 1955 Members

The Society of 1955 honors individual donors who support Baptist Health through endowment gifts or provisions in their wills or estate plans. These commitments ensure the future financial security of Baptist Health and our community-focused, not-for-profit mission. In providing these gifts, society members establish legacies that permanently benefit the community and the health of future generations.

*Deceased
Who knew that the life of 7-year-old Jacob Lopez and his mother, Maria Munoz, would be changed forever by the decision to go get ice cream on a spring day in 2015? That drive ended in tragedy when they were involved in a car accident that left Jacob in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit at Wolfson Children’s Hospital with life-threatening injuries including a skull fracture, a traumatic brain injury, a collapsed lung and a severed spinal cord.

Today, after eight surgeries, treatment by 17 pediatric physician specialists and surgeons, 124 days in the hospital, and hundreds of hours of rehabilitation, Jacob is an 8-year-old whirlwind in a wheelchair. His parents are thankful that Wolfson Children’s Hospital was able to provide the quality surgical and medical care that Jacob desperately needed so close to home. Because of their experience, they are acutely aware of the need to improve the delivery and quality of care to U.S. children who have complex medical conditions. Through THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health and its director, Megan Denk, the family has become involved in advocacy efforts such as traveling to Washington, D.C., in June of 2016 to lobby for passage of the Advancing Care for Exceptional Kids Act.

In 2013, 14-year-old Raia Adams was rushed to Wolfson Children’s Emergency Department five times over a five-month period due to severe asthma symptoms. Her asthma was so frequent and so severe, she had to be homeschooled. Thanks to THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health’s High Risk Care Coordination program, Raia and her family received individual instruction in asthma education and management techniques that allowed Raia to control her asthma. By learning to identify asthma triggers, understand asthma warning signs, and properly use her medications and inhaler, Raia was able to improve her asthma outcomes and return to school, where she is doing very well.
These are just two of thousands of children being helped by the efforts of THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health at Wolfson Children’s Hospital. Wolfson Children’s has been advocating for children’s healthcare access and educating the community on child safety and injury prevention for decades. In 2011, THE PLAYERS Championship became their partner in child advocacy, providing a $1 million gift to establish THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health at Wolfson Children’s Hospital, which serves as a community outreach center focused on improving the health, wellness and quality of life of families living in Northeast Florida while also representing the interests of medically underserved children at the local, state and federal government levels. Since 2012, THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health has impacted the lives of more than 130,000 children, families and caregivers in our community.

“The PLAYERS’ contribution made our vision, to keep kids safe and healthy, a reality,” says Michael Aubin, President of Wolfson Children’s Hospital. “Our number-one goal was to keep kids out of the hospital through injury prevention and teaching healthy habits, helping them maximize their educational opportunities and provide a better future for themselves and our community.”

But the support of THE PLAYERS Championship didn’t stop there. Understanding that children’s health needs are constantly evolving, THE PLAYERS wanted to continue the good works of the Center through additional funding to sustain current programs and provide support for any future needs. Recently, THE PLAYERS Championship Executive Director Matt Rapp, the Red Coats, Jim Furyk, and Tabitha Furyk, who is chair-elect of the Baptist Health Foundation Board, presented a check for an additional $2 million endowment gift to benefit child health, wellness and injury prevention programming at THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health at Wolfson Children’s.

“In the five years since THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health was established, Tabitha and I have been very impressed by the scope and quality of services provided to children and families throughout our region,” says Jim Furyk. “It is heartening to know that this gift will allow the center to continue its great work for years to come.”

The 150% match provided through Baptist Health’s Securing Tomorrow Together comprehensive campaign will add an additional $3 million in matching funds to the endowment for a total of $5 million, which will significantly impact the health of our community’s children.

“The relationship between Baptist Health, Wolfson Children’s Hospital, THE PLAYERS Championship, the PGA TOUR, and Jim and Tabitha Furyk, continues to be strengthened through our collaboration that launched THE PLAYERS Center for Child Health,” says Hugh Greene, President and CEO of Baptist Health. “The success of the Center has exceeded our initial expectations by providing the highest level of health and wellness programs and services to the children and families in our region. We celebrate this momentous endowment gift, which will have even further impact for countless generations.”
Hope for children with medically complex needs

On August 6, 2015, Abigail Noelle Jones was born at Baptist Medical Center Jacksonville. She was a beautiful baby, loved by her parents, Erika and Stephen Jones, her big sister, Audrey, 3, and grandparents, Ed and Marlene White. She was also born with Down syndrome and a large tumor in the left hemisphere of her brain, which was diagnosed at Erika’s 30-week ultrasound. The tumor was thought to be malignant and the prognosis was bleak: Abigail was given only a short time to live.

During those first few weeks, “I didn’t plan, didn’t dream, didn’t hope past tomorrow,” says her mother, Erika. But as Abigail continued to thrive and grow at home, and after the results of her six-week MRI showed the tumor getting smaller, Erika began to ask herself this question, “But what if she lives?” Three weeks and a second opinion later, Abigail’s benign brain tumor was successfully removed.

Today, Abigail is a happy 17-month-old. However, due to the residual effects of brain loss from the tumor, she has ongoing complex medical and cognitive rehabilitation needs that are being addressed by the Wolfson Children’s Hospital Developmental Pediatrics program. In partnership with the University of Florida College of Medicine-Jacksonville, the Developmental Pediatrics program at Wolfson Children’s Hospital brings together teams of specialists, including geneticists, therapists, counselors, psychologists, and physicians, to assist in the diagnosis, monitoring and treatment of complex developmental, behavioral, and learning disorders in children. The Developmental Pediatrics program places special focus on making the most advanced health care available to special needs children while providing families with the guidance and support they need to address their child’s condition.

Abigail has up to five appointments each week through this program, including ongoing speech, occupational and physical therapy at Wolfson Children’s Pediatric Rehabilitation Clinic. Abigail’s grandparents, Ed and Marlene White, have seen how vital this program is to children who are experiencing long-term health and developmental issues, so they decided they wanted to support Wolfson Children’s Hospital’s efforts to help special needs children and their families.
“Watching our daughter and son-in-law go through this journey with our granddaughter opened our eyes to the needs of children with complex medical issues,” says Ed White, President of Auld & White Constructors. “Marlene and I are blessed and if we can share those resources to help Abigail and other children like her, we want to do that.”

In 2016, the Whites, along with Auld & White Constructors and Steve and Cathy Auld, generously contributed $300,000 to establish the Abigail’s Joy Developmental Pediatrics Center Endowment at Wolfson Children’s Hospital, which was matched at 100% by Baptist Health.

In addition to supporting treatment programs for medically complex children, Ed and Marlene wanted to support research efforts in pediatric genetics and molecular-based medicine, which can create new standards for the treatment of various diseases and illnesses by speeding up diagnosis, creating more individualized treatments, fostering new prevention strategies, and creating a healthier future for children. So, Ed and Marlene contributed an additional $200,000 to the Pediatric Genetic and Molecular Medicine Endowment, which was also matched by Baptist Health.

Working collaboratively with University of Florida researchers and other Wolfson pediatric departments such as the Bower Lyman Center for Medically Complex Children, Wolfson Children’s Hospital continues to provide pediatric geneticists and genetics counselors the resources needed for comprehensive services in the diagnosis, treatment, and management of all forms of hereditary disorders and birth defects affecting fetuses, newborns, children, and adolescents.

“God has blessed us with countless precious moments that we did not think we would have,” says Erika Jones. “We know that Abigail’s life has a purpose, and for some incredible reason, she has been given to us. She is God’s pebble and her ripples will extend deep.”
Patients grateful for innovative neurological care

Long-time Beaches residents Cheryl and Tom Rackley have been involved with Baptist Medical Center Beaches for many years, both as volunteers and philanthropists. In fact, after Cheryl had a cardiac episode in 2013, the Rackleys made a generous gift to establish the Rackley Center for Cardiac and Interventional Radiology, a state-of-the-art diagnostic cardiac catheterization lab at Baptist Beaches.

In 2015, Baptist Health was there for Cheryl again when her primary care physician, Dr. Anthony Capasso, was concerned about Cheryl’s symptoms and ordered further tests. After an aneurysm was discovered, Cheryl was referred to Ricardo Hanel, MD, PhD, an endovascular neurosurgeon at Lyerly Neurosurgery and director of the Baptist Neurological Institute. Dr. Hanel confirmed that Cheryl had a small aneurysm in the carotid artery in her brain, which is a thin spot on the artery that balloons out and fills with blood and can cause a life-threatening emergency if it ruptures. Within a week, Cheryl was admitted to the hospital and Dr. Hanel performed a minimally invasive surgical procedure that allowed access to the aneurysm by threading a catheter through the carotid artery until it reached her brain. After an overnight stay in the Neuro ICU, Cheryl was released to go home.

Cheryl and Tom were extremely impressed with the exceptional care of Dr. Hanel and the entire team at the Baptist Neurological Institute. As a grateful patient for the second time, Cheryl knew that it was important to support the Baptist Neurological Institute so others in the community experiencing life-threatening neurological conditions could receive such quality care.

“When someone moves to a new city, they want a neighborhood that has the best schools, the best doctors and the best hospital for themselves and their family,” says Cheryl. “We have a community with the best neurosurgeons in the country, and we want to keep them here. It’s important for the community to join in to support these wonderful physicians and this facility so they will always be available nearby when we need them.”

Cheryl and Tom decided to redesignate $1M of a previous endowment gift to create the Rackley Beaches Neuroscience Endowment at Baptist Beaches to support neurological needs for Beaches residents, such as the cost of drugs, equipment, renovations and patient care. In addition, in honor of the wonderful care they received, the Rackleys provided a new $500,000 gift to the Baptist Health Neurological Institute Endowment, which was established in 2015 by Dr. Hanel and Dr. Eric Sauvageau, and their wives, to support and expand the Institute’s programs and services, including new technologies, telemedicine and educational fellowships. The new gift will be matched at 100% by Baptist Health, providing an additional $1M to the current fund thanks to the continued generosity of Cheryl and Tom Rackley.

Other grateful patients and their families have shared similar experiences. In 2015, a patient was rushed to Baptist Medical Center Jacksonville after collapsing at home and diagnosed with a stroke caused by a blocked artery in her brain. A stroke can result in death or life-long disability if not treated quickly due to lack of oxygen to the brain, so after several hours without treatment, the patient’s prognosis was dire. With no time to wait for medication to dissolve the clot, Dr. Hanel accessed the blockage in her brain via a catheter threaded through the femoral artery in her leg. During this minimally invasive procedure, a tiny device attached to the end of the catheter was used to grab the clot and remove it.

Because of the highly skilled physicians and clinical team at the Baptist Neurological Institute, the patient suffered no ill effects from lack of oxygen to the brain and is completely healthy. This family was so grateful for the wonderful outcome that they provided a $1.1M gift to establish the Ricardo Hanel, MD, and Eric Sauvageau, MD, Chair in Neurovascular Surgery at Baptist Neurological Institute. This generous gift will be matched at 125% by Baptist Health, providing a total of $2,475,000 to this named endowment to support research, education, program development, community outreach and awareness for neurovascular surgery and clinical programs, including stroke, aneurysms and other cerebrovascular conditions for adults and children.

Saving lives and saving families. Through the continued generosity of our donors, Baptist Health will continue to save the lives of those with life-threatening neurological conditions through the development and use of cutting-edge procedures and treatments, keeping families in our community intact.
Honoring the legacies of our colleagues

When a colleague passes away, Baptist Health team members often want to honor them in a meaningful way. During 2016, new endowments were established to provide lasting legacies for two exceptional members of the Baptist Health family who have meant so much to so many.

Aalok Kuthiala, MD, a beloved member of the Dialysis Unit at Baptist Jacksonville, passed away unexpectedly on May 13, 2016. He dedicated his entire medical career to the field of nephrology, the care of diseases of the kidneys. Dr. Kuthiala’s compassionate and collaborative approach to his work offered great comfort to everyone he encountered.

“My husband, Charlie and I were blessed to be the recipients of Dr. Kuthiala’s many gifts,” said Sharon Eddins, MDiv., Senior Chaplain at Wolfson Children’s Hospital. “His exceptional people skills, ability to listen and the gift of his time in addition to his talents, pulled many seemingly disconnected pieces together that ultimately led to Charlie’s diagnosis of Multiple Myeloma. During Charlie’s treatment by an oncologist Dr. Kuthiala recommended, this fine man consistently went out of his way to ask how Charlie and I were doing. Dr. Kuthiala will forever be our hero.”

Dr. Kuthiala’s spirit of compassionate care will live on through the Aalok Kuthiala, MD, Dialysis Care Fund, which was established by the support of many Baptist Health colleagues to provide dialysis caregiver education and patient support at Baptist Jacksonville.

Ruth Hoyt, RN, a weekend shift supervisor at Wolfson Children’s Hospital for more than 21 years, passed away on June 25, 2016. Respected by physicians and staff alike, Hoyt’s presence on a unit was one of strength and calmness.

“Ruth recognized the power, honor and responsibility of being a part of something larger than ourselves,” said long-time colleague Karen Grissinger, MSN, RN, NEA-BC, CPN. “Whether she was arranging an emergency transport, reassuring a younger nurse, or encouraging someone to go back to school, she loved being a part of the Wolfson Children’s family of caregivers.”

Those closest to her felt that establishing the Ruth Hoyt Educational Endowment was an appropriate way to honor her legacy. It will support the education of nurses at Wolfson Children’s, providing knowledge and skills to enhance the care of young patients.

Hoyt once wrote of the nurses she served, “They are like jewels in a crown; every time the light shines on them, new facets are revealed. How blessed am I to look after them for a time!” And how blessed we are to have had Ruth’s caring spirit with us at Wolfson Children’s for 35 years.
Jacksonville Jaguars gift helps make cancer history

October 23 was a significant day for football fans in Jacksonville, especially female fans! Shad Khan, owner of the Jacksonville Jaguars, pledged a $1 million gift to Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center that, with matching funds, will create a $2.25 million Jacksonville Jaguars endowment for breast cancer prevention, treatment, and care. During the Jaguars/Oakland Raiders game at EverBank Field, Khan presented a $1 million check to Hugh Greene, President and Chief Executive Officer of Baptist Health.

“Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center provides a unique opportunity for Jacksonville in the international efforts to prevent, treat and cure cancer,” Khan said. “For this reason, we are making a significant commitment to create an endowment to support and help advance their efforts, specifically in the area of breast cancer which continues to impact the lives of women daily. This is a serious disease and one that requires teamwork to defeat it, and we are honored to be a part of that team.”

The Jaguars organization’s commitment of excellence on and off the field is well known in our community. As part of the NFL’s league-wide effort to support the fight against breast cancer, the Jaguars partner with many Jacksonville non-profits for the prevention, treatment and cure of this disease that affects our mothers, sisters, daughters and friends.

Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center replicates the MD Anderson model of multidisciplinary cancer care, addressing the medical needs of patients as well as their emotional, spiritual, and wellness needs. Centrally locating all services and specialties in one facility provides the patient and family with a home for every step of their journey — diagnosis, treatment planning, treatment, support and survivorship.

“We are very grateful for Shad Khan’s generosity, which recognizes the transformational nature of the Baptist MD Anderson partnership and the world-renowned model of care it has brought to our region,” said Greene. “This gift is yet another indication of our longstanding relationship as the official health care provider of the Jacksonville Jaguars since 1993.”

Shah Khan presents a check to Hugh Greene.
Helping the future look brighter for our children

Bouts of depression and mania left 15-year-old Meri Ivy Read feeling out of control and isolated, and led to her first suicide attempt. Her mental health issues began at age 12, when she struggled with anxiety and depression in middle school. By 14, she was self-medicating with drugs and alcohol.

“It was like being on a roller coaster,” Meri said. “One moment I was on top of the world. The next moment, I would feel empty inside and the slightest thing would send me into a downward spiral of self-hatred and self-pity.”

After a stay at Wolfson Children’s Behavioral Health Unit, a bipolar disorder diagnosis, correct medication and extensive outpatient counseling, including a support group, Meri is doing well. She is now an 18-year-old high school senior who plans on becoming a nurse. Meri is extremely thankful for the mental health care she received at Wolfson Children’s Hospital and wants others to understand that there is no shame in asking for help.

“I love and respect myself,” she said. “I hope coming out about mental health will help others do the same.”

Take a moment to digest this staggering statistic: one in five children ages 13-18 have, or will have, a serious mental illness, according to data from the National Alliance on Mental Illness (NAMI). Yet Florida ranked 49th of the 50 states in per-capita state mental health funding in 2012, and Northeast Florida was the second-lowest funded region in the state.

According to key findings reported in the 2015 Community Health Needs Assessment, more than 11% of Duval County high school students who responded to the Youth Risk Behavior Survey reported that they had attempted suicide, a rate well above the average in Florida and the U.S., and the number of middle school students who reported “serious consideration of suicide” had increased 10% from 2009 to 2013. Increased access to mental health services in a timely manner is a major need for children and adolescents in our community.

In response to this community need, Baptist Health and Wolfson Children’s Hospital have made behavioral health services a priority in order to provide access to care and... reduce the stigma of mental health issues. This commitment includes the creation of the new Wolfson Children’s Center for Behavioral Health, an outpatient facility which opened in August 2016 that is dedicated entirely to children and adolescents and is home to a wide range of outpatient psychology and psychiatry services, all offered in one location. This facility treats youth with social, emotional, developmental and behavioral dysfunction, and is the first dedicated behavioral health center of its kind in Northeast Florida.

Prominent leaders in North Florida, such as Delores Barr and J. Wayne Weaver, Hall-Halliburton Foundation, Inc., and Robert and Margaret Hill, have established endowments to assist Baptist Health in bringing much-needed attention to mental health needs of children in our community. And in 2016, Florida Blue partnered with Baptist Health to help address this critical issue. Florida Blue’s $1M endowment gift in support of the Wolfson Children’s Center for Behavioral Health will positively impact thousands of adolescents who need outpatient mental health care. This generous gift will have even further impact because Baptist Health will provide a 125% match, providing a total of $2.25M to the endowment to secure the future of this critically needed Center.

“Mental health is an important part of overall health and we are committed to providing outstanding care in our community,” says Audrey Moran, a Senior Vice President who is the executive in charge of Behavioral Health at Baptist. “We are incredibly grateful for Florida Blue’s generous gift that helped make this Center a reality.”

The Florida Blue Behavioral Health Patient Support Endowment will fund two positions at the Center that are essential in providing the most comprehensive, quality care to adolescent patients and their families during such difficult times. A Case Manager coordinates care amongst providers, schools and other participants in children’s care. A Referral Coordinator ensures that referrals to and from providers get scheduled as intended and communicates referral outcomes.

Florida Blue’s support will make sure children and their families “receive the crucial help they need to overcome potentially lifelong issues and lead productive lives as members of our community,” said CEO Pat Geraghty. “Florida Blue’s mission is to help people and communities achieve better health. I can’t think of a better place to start than by helping to expand the pediatric behavioral health services available in Northeast Florida.”
We are truly grateful for our community’s incredible support of Baptist Health. It is your generosity that allows us to provide high quality care for children, the frail elderly and everyone in between. For more than sixty years our doors have been open to everyone in our community, regardless of their ability to pay. In September 2016, Baptist Health reached $100 million in endowments — an incredible illustration of how, through philanthropy, we are truly Securing Tomorrow Together.

Calculation of Endowment Value

Last year, the Baptist Health Foundation began calculating the five percent annual spending rate as of June 30, 2015. We have again used June 30, 2016, to “run the numbers” thus providing those responsible for allocating these dollars a few month’s advance notice before the beginning of the fiscal year on October 1. This approach has proved beneficial to all involved.

The five percent spending allocation is the maximum allowed per the spending policy, which means some endowments will generate less than five percent in any given year. The reasons vary, but examples include timing when new funds were established or when additional funds are added to existing endowments.

Lastly, you will note that a number of funds have no dollars listed even though gifts have been made since July 1, 2016. For purposes of this report, we are tracking June 30 numbers only.

For donors who have questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at 904.202.2449 or pierre.allaire@bmcjax.com.

* Established after 6/30/16
When we started the Securing Tomorrow Together campaign in 2013, we knew that our five-year fundraising effort would have an impact on the number of new endowments created but we had no idea how big that impact would be. I am pleased to report that after more than three years into the campaign, we have established 144 new endowments, bringing the total number of endowments to 213. Donors created 28 new funds this past fiscal year alone.

The growth in new Baptist Health endowments has also impacted the amount that is available to spend this fiscal year. As you see on page 33, the total amount for distribution of the 213 endowments is almost $3.2 million, an increase of $1.8 million over 2013. This support from donors like you has made a real difference in the lives of thousands of patients, families, team members and community partners. Thank you for making a difference in our community.

If you look at page 35, you will see two charts. The top one illustrates the Foundation’s matching gift program. Many of our donors have attributed their interest in establishing an endowment because of the philanthropic leverage it provides. We are pleased and thankful for this support. The bottom graph charts our campaign progress in the three major categories we deemed strategic over the five-year span of the campaign. The endowment goal has exceeded our expectations. Next year, I suspect it will be significantly higher.

When we decided to use the word Legacy as the descriptive title for this annual publication, we wanted to represent what an endowment is all about. Your legacy at Baptist Health, and its impact on our hospitals, programs and patients, will never be forgotten. We are forever grateful for your generosity.

Sincerely,

Pierre N. Allaire, PhD
Vice President & Chief Development Officer
